WHERE Northwestern University School of Law
Lincoln Hall (Levy Mayer Room 104)
357 East Chicago Avenue, Chicago, IL

Markus Funk has written the 'must-read' book for all lawyers and judges who practice in the International Criminal Court and for the entire academy of international criminal lawyers. . . . International justice is well-served by this path-breaking book.

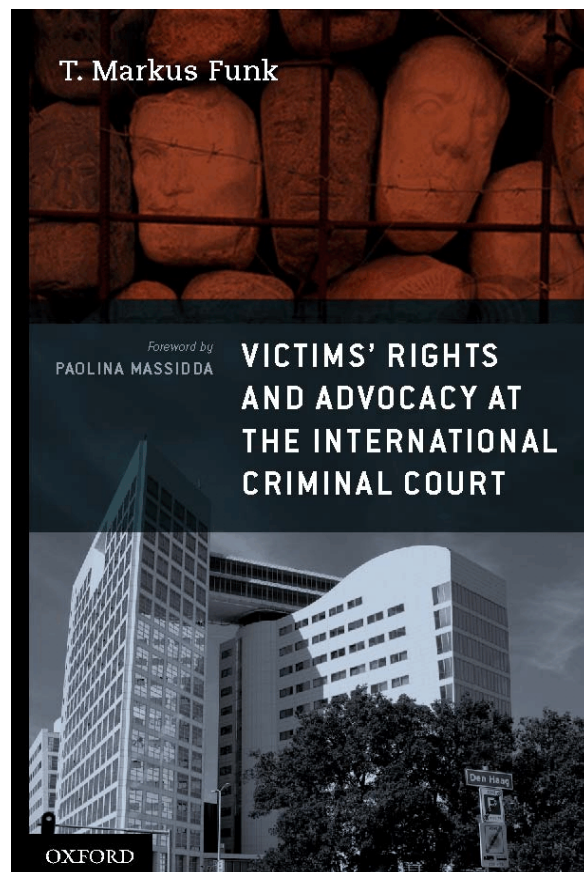

Professor David Scheffer, U.S. Ambassador-at-Large for War Crimes Issues (1997-2001); Leader of the U.S. Negotiating Team in United Nations talks on the International Criminal Court; Director, Northwestern University's Center for International Human Rights

This intelligent book discusses a topical issue with vivacity.

Judge Antonio Cassese, First President of the United Nations International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia; Chairman of the U.N. International Commission of Inquiry on Darfur; Current President, U.N. Special Tribunal for Lebanon

Mr. Funk's insightful and first-of-its-kind book is perfectly-timed to provide critical guidance to practitioners and academics alike.

Professor M. Cherif Bassiouni, 1998 Chairperson of the Drafting Committee of the U.N.'s Diplomatic Conference on the Establishment of the ICC; President, DePaul University International Human Rights Law Institute

Introductory Remarks by Professor David Scheffer, Followed by an Informal Q&A with the Author
